

Marty Thomas, General Manager, Reliability Center of Excellence, GE Transportation

Marty Thomas is the General Manager of the Reliability Center of Excellence for GE Transportation. In this role, he leads a global team comprised of engineering, supplier, manufacturing and service quality professionals who work to ensure that the company's products meet the highest standards of quality and reliability.

He previously led Field Services and was responsible for managing over 5,000 locomotives in the field, encompassing 15 sites. He led efforts to ensure customer service and conducted fieldwork in compliance with all applicable regulations and employee safety practices. Marty has a diverse background and wealth of experience from 19 years in GET leadership roles, including deep knowledge of service contracts, quality and reliability.

Marty graduated from Montana State University with a bachelor's degree in Technology, and received his MBA from Frostburg State University